Mines' Closing

"Serious Blow"

Says Mayor Fry

All coal mines in Edmonton were idle Saturday morning as operators carried out effect their unanimous determination to cease operations until a settlement satisfactory to them had been arrived at with the Dominion government relative to the payment of subsidy on coal mined in this area.

Decision to cease work was reached at a meeting of the operators held Friday at noon, and this decision was transmitted to the Ottawa authorities immediately after meeting. Copy of the representations made to Ottawa was given also to Mr. Edgar T. Casselman, M.P. for Edmonton East, in whose riding most of the coal mines are located.

Approximately 500 mines were out of work Saturday morning as the mines ceased production operations, and maintained only maintenance and repair work.

Mayor John W. Fry said that the representations were being prepared for submission to Ottawa authority and that they would be made there later Saturday. He said that the closing of the mines was a most serious blow to Edmonton's economy.

City Commissioner R. J. Gibb said there was approximately 18,000 tons of coal on hand at the power plant. He added that sources of coal supply had been examined, and that the city would be able to operate for a few days.

When Germany Is Defeated

Article V. Trials of War Criminals

A crime committed against humanity must be atoned for, not by individuals but by a people. We should think not only of the few hundred German leaders but of all the German soldiers and civilians responsible for the atrocities of this war.

Their number may be 100,000. I am concentrating on Germany because she will be first in being judged by the world.

In Italy, only the Fascist leaders are guilty and not the whole people; they are being punished without going into detail.

The duty of the victors to punish all war criminals is a duty which results from three main points.

1.—The military codes of all modern states are based on the individual soldier's responsibility for his actions, especially for his actions against civilians.

2.—The duty of the victors to punish all war criminals is a duty which results from three main points.

3.—The duty of the victors to punish all war criminals is a duty which results from three main points.

When Germany Is Defeated

By Emil Ludwig

good sense, and a sense of duty imposed by principles of humanity will be the surest guide. . . . The officers of the German Navy, I emphatically affirm, will always fail in the strictest manner the duties which emanate from the unwritten law of humanity and civilization.

PEOPLE SUPPORT HITLER

2.—The German people are collectively responsible for their Nazi government because, in 1932, in two free and secret elections they voted the Nazis in as the strongest party. Hitler's nomination as chancellor was the consequence of the legally expressed will of the people. Moreover, for seven years, the German people backed the armament for this war, and now, for more than four years, they have willingly followed Hitler in his war of conquest and suppression. Without the least attempt at opposition, this fact proves the responsibility of fifteen million German soldiers, half the German manpower. The records show that not only Nazis, but all sorts and conditions of soldiers have committed war crimes.

3.—Written laws or judicial statutes are not enough reason for punishing those "responsible for the atrocities committed. Trials of war criminals are justified in every healthy-minded individual, even when the heads or brains accounts of the most atrocious that have been done. In this case, I deem it a sign of weakness to shrink from the word "retaliation."

We are not in favor of the "eye for an eye, tooth for a tooth" atonement of the Old Testament. We don't want to punish physically millions of men. But all of these men who, with their own hands, have returned to the war crimes of the Hun and the Vandals must be punished regardless of whether they did it with satanic intent or with secret designs. Every German soldier who has committed atrocious crimes represents his culpable nation. An example is the shooting of innocent hostages in retaliation for anonymous rebellion in the nations the Germans have suppressed.

Who shall be judge? As the international courts of Geneva and The Hague have no authority, a new court must be created in which all Allied nations, and perhaps some neutrals, are represented. Only some of its members should be allowed to co-operate in any way. After the last war, the German Republic shamelessly deceived the Allies in its trials of war criminals. The Treaty of Versailles, in article 228, recognized the right of the Allied and Associated Powers to bring before international tribunals persons accused of having committed acts in violation of the laws and customs of war. Also "such persons shall, if found guilty, be sentenced to punishment by a court of law. This provision will apply notwithstanding any proceedings of prosecution before the tribunals of Germany or the territory of the Allies."

Shortly afterwards, a special commission drew up a list of thirteen war crimes, beginning with "massacres" and ending with "poisoned wells."

But even the noble old Anglo-Saxon idea of fair play began to go ground against the victors. The victors were more inclined to spare the poor Germans than to claim atonement for their crimes. In Washington, Congress, in 1919, declared that there were no laws against war crimes, and that the unwritten laws of humanity were too weak a basis for retaliation.

The Royal House of Europe—of which were related to one another—were on the side of the Allies, all united to prevent the extradition of the Kaiser, and secretly made known that a refusal of the Dutch authorities to deliver the royal refugee would be agreeable to the great powers.

The new German Republic promised the victorious Allies a trial of the guilty general, but the form of the punishment, any inquiry, I was present at this trial in the Reichstag in December 1919, and have described it in my work on Hindenburg. It should be compared to a comedy scene by Bernard Shaw.

TRIUMPH OF HINDENBURG
The Field Marshal had been accused: firstly, for suddenly breaking off the war and demanding the armistice without trying to defend the country; secondly, for the crimes committed in Belgium and Holland in his name.

But what happened? The submarine German democracy received him at his "trial" with a great number of flowers, and admiringly listened to his speech, in which he invented the lie of the "dagger in the back," which he said the victors' English German army, thus forcing it to give up. Twice the President dared to rise and rebuke him, and the defendant, but Hindenburg laid sergeant's hands covered it and continued to abuse of the governing party.

VERITABLE TRIUMPH
That after this victorious defense, the Field Marshal was accompanied home in veritable triumph.

RADIO ADDRESS
"Canada's Role in World Affairs" by Dr. HENRY NEWTON, President, University of Alberta, Monday, April 1, 1941, 8:30 p.m. K.F.A. 1210-1215 p.m. Reception by the Community League.

After these experiences, no German court—not even an anti-Nazi one—can be trusted to prosecute the war criminals of today. Nazi leaders must be brought to trial, also the leading industrialists of the great trusts and syndicates, their greed and lust for power made it possible for them to bring this war. Also, those authors of classical Nazi works who have given the philosophical and ethical basis to the Nazi religion of brutality are those who must be brought to trial.

PUBLIC TRIALS
These trials must be given a publicity greater than any trial in history, and this for three reasons: 1.—To protect the judges and the jury. 2.—To protect the public. 3.—To protect the world. For instance, what a Polish girl said she felt that, in a secret court, one of the leaders of the German army was accused of ravaging her village was acquitted. She might protest, "That is the only one who killed my mother!" But if she could follow the proceedings, she would be able to understand a just acquittal.

At every acquittal will cause discontent among the victims, and every acquittal must be able to prevent his case to public opinion.

Local Russian penetrations are possible and are to be expected within a short time. The Carpatho-Ruthenian area of Czechoslovakia where the former Polish frontier, Czechoslovakian frontiers meet. The destruction of the main German defence forces may be followed by a Russian march through the Carpathians. But this will be the concluding phase of the Russian offensive. The major objectives at either end of the Carpathians are the Ploesti oil fields and the route into the heart of the Balkans in the south, and the industrial areas of southwestern Poland and Silesia, with their clear roads into the heart of Czechoslovakia in the north. These exterior flanks of the Carpathians dominate strategically both the Balkans and central Europe. The Third Reich cannot survive their loss.

Some island in the Pacific, it falls to our side. It is in effect an air base, not subject to reinforcement. But Casablanca is an advance point, the broad highway to the east. No matter how much we cause, whether with bombing or artillery fire, the enemy forces still have to be dislodged and overtaken.

Casablanca does not teach us anything about air power. The airplane has been employed here as a more deadly type of artillery in a purely ground operation. It does confirm, however, the contention of airmen that in the tactical use of aviation, the best results for investment of planes, men and bombs. Obviously, such a strategic target inside Germany, the German forces were only able to wipe out a source of military strength for the tactical use of power was diverted from the great strategic undertaking in the skies over Germany for a tactical job in Casablanca. It interfered with the primary mission of the Luftwaffe.

ISOLATED FORTRESS
All of Germany can be regarded as an isolated fortress in a tactical sense. The German forces were only able to wipe out a source of military strength for the tactical use of power was diverted from the great strategic undertaking in the skies over Germany for a tactical job in Casablanca. It interfered with the primary mission of the Luftwaffe.

ROOT OF CONFUSION
The root of the confusion is in the versatility of the airplane. It can do so many different things that it is little more than flying artillery. Or it can be used as an independent strategic force seeking out the enemy's rear and striking the skies, as in the Battle of Germany at this time.

In Casablanca, it should be understood once for all, air power served as a tactical auxiliary—air field artillery, pure and simple. A decision was made to demolish the town. The German forces were only able to wipe out a source of military strength for the tactical use of power was diverted from the great strategic undertaking in the skies over Germany for a tactical job in Casablanca. It interfered with the primary mission of the Luftwaffe.

Coldwell Says Cartels Aided Nazi Regime

MONTREAL, April 1.—(CP)—W. J. Coldwell, C.P. leader, last night in an address that he believed the Nazi regime, through the association of Germany's monopolies with similar monopolies in Allied countries, was able to cripple vital industrial development and obtain information about important patents.

"Not only that but Baugh and Lomb, for example, the sole American producer of optical equipment of all kinds, was required by the cartel to report all scientific and military stores to its cartel partner 'Carl Zeiss (Germany)'—specifying quantities, prices and specifications," he said. This continued until 1940.

SPREAD PROPAGANDA
Speaking before the general alumni association of the University, Montreal branch, Mr. Coldwell said that in some instances the Nazi regime used its cartel partners abroad to distribute Nazi propaganda. In 1938, Chemical Marketing Company of New York received a letter from "a German cartel partner" which enclosed a speech by Hitler and "invited its clients to attend."

Mr. Coldwell said a firm known as N. V. Philips Company was in "guilty complicity" through the ownership of shares in numerous concerns. In alliance with General Electric, A. P. Westinghouse, it controlled electric light bulbs, radio equipment and electrical supplies.

"Because of this cartel, the consumer pays exorbitant prices for electric light bulbs, to take one example, and pays for a product that has been deliberately inflated in quality," said Mr. Coldwell.

LIFETIME REDUCED
This organization deliberately reduced the lifetime of its bulbs in order to promote sales. "Yet the company exists in Canada today that could cripple the cartel in optics and radio. I refer to the publicly-owned company, Research Electric Ltd., created to meet wartime demands of optics and radio equipment. It could employ thousands of Canadians and produce at rates far below the cartel prices."

Air Power

Air Power Role Misunderstood
By Maj. A. P. de Seversky

The saturation bombing of Casablanca which reduced the unfortunate town to rubble is still being widely discussed and interpreted. From most of the comment in print and on the radio it is sadly clear that even today, in the fifth year of the war, the role of air power continues to be misunderstood.

Early reports claimed that 2,400 tons of explosives had been unloaded on Casablanca from 4,000 tons of bombs. Later it appeared that while such volume had been thrown into the city, only 1,300 tons were dropped in about 1,000 sorties. Whatever the figure, it was enough to destroy the town.

As in the classical Greek tragedies in which the public called upon to justify a reveller or a money, these trials may have moral and religious influences on the people of the world—but if we make them public, they will make them public.

BECAUSE I Live...

Has Christ Himself no tears for us
Who lie in startled death?
No word at all to heal this wound
That took our easy breath?

This ground is hard and bitter ground,
And frozen with our hate,
Where we lie cold and twisted men
Who once stood tall and straight.

Young men die hard, and we were young,
And yet we have no fear
Who know that Christ is on the field
Tonight and sees us here.

It is a little thing at last,
This dreadful blood we shed,
If he look down with troubled eyes
To see us dead.

TODAY'S MESSAGE

By G. A. CLEVELAND SHRIGLEY
Compiler and author of "Prayers for Men in Service," "War-time Prayers for Those at Home," "Prayers for Women Who Serve."

LET US PRAY

Prayers designed for private and public occasions of men and women everywhere.

A NEW FATHER'S PRAYER
HEAVENLY FATHER, I thank Thee for my baby son (or daughter) and pray that Thou wilt bless him (her) with Thy love and care. May he (she) grow strong in body, mind, and spirit. Help me to do my part to make a better world in which all children may enjoy the abundant life and every family may Thy blessings of good-will and peace. Through Christ, Thy Son, Amen.

FOR FULL MANHOOD
HELP ME, DEAR FATHER, to be a worthy Christian soldier and to grow up into the fullness of manhood in body and mind, in heart and soul. May I control my appetites and keep moderate in pleasure and fit for my country. May I be humble to learn, patient to think things through, and cautious never to accept prejudice for truth or wishes for realities.

May I strive to understand my comrades, to assume my responsibilities in common tasks, and to do my best in making brotherhood living and strong in my world. May I worship Thee in sincerity and make my religion real by doing good, by dealing justly, and by giving myself generously in service to the highest standards of my country and my church. Make me, dear Father, a man of Christlike stature, Amen.

THOU HAST TAUGHT US, dear God, to love our enemies and to pray for them. Give us Thy spirit of generosity and forgiveness that we may bear no hatred in our hearts against our foes, even as Thou dost not hate us. When we are ignorant of the wrongs of others, may we have only evil and sin, and may we ever overlook the doors of evil with our love and mercy.

Turn our enemies from all courses of oppression and destruction, and defeat their gains in all unrighteousness. Keep us from all vengeance and retaliation. Show all men that in Thy law and obedience are freedom and security, and inspire us after the discipline of war to share our good things with them.

So may our foes become our friends, and at last we shall all live and work in prosperity and peace under Thee, Amen.

BLESS OUR CHAPLAINS
HEAVENLY FATHER, we remember before Thee our chaplains and ask Thy blessings upon them in their many ministries for others and for us. We thank Thee for their friendliness and understanding, their patience and generosity, and for their quiet example of Christian manhood.

Above all we are grateful to Thee and to them that they bring Thy Word of Life to us, meditate Thy strength and courage to us for our daily tasks, lift up our hearts to things eternal, and us close to Thee and to each other before the altar of Thy love. Through Christ, our Lord, Amen.

FOR DISCIPLINE
LORD, GRANT that I may so heartily obey the rules and disciplines of service life and so diligently profit that I may grow up in self-control, restraint, and all many qualities and know the satisfaction of working well with others and the joy of serving for the common good. Through Him who was obedient to the Father in all things, Christ, our Master, Amen.

AS ONE FAMILY
ALMIGHTY GOD, we thank Thee for the inner victories of our hearts and the outer victories of our hands which bring us closer to the day when the rule of tyranny and evil shall be overcome. We pray for wisdom, power, and patience that we may dedicate ourselves and our best thought and effort to unite all men and nations in one family of creative brotherhood and shared abundance under Thee, the Father, Judge, and Ruler of us all. Amen.

Teacher Asks For Hearing On Suspension

A formal hearing of her case by the management committee of Edmonton Public School Board is being requested by Miss E. Shepherd, superintendent of schools, in connection with the suspension of a teacher who has been suspended by the board for "speaking slightly in a hostile" manner regarding his racial origin.

A complaint regarding the incident was made by the student in question to his principal, Mr. S. J. Sheppard, superintendent of schools, who investigated the matter and reported to the committee on school management, which recommended that Miss Shepherd be suspended.

Miss Shepherd stated that she told the boy "his nationality was against him" in a private conversation after school hours and that she was not present.

She said she became "very angry" at the boy because "he was interviewed about the matter by the principal and the superintendent, and that she felt the correct procedure would have been for them to interview the person involved separately.

In view of her good record of long standing at the school, Miss Shepherd declared she felt she would have further consideration and a chance to state her case more fully.

Before the Magistrate

Buster C. Kennedy, who said he had been in bad company since the time he was arrested, was taken to court today by a magistrate, who sentenced him to six months imprisonment with hard labor, together with a fine of $500 imposed, which, if not paid, will see an additional six months in jail, for which he was immediately stopped by a bus, and taken to the court.

The bus was found to contain a large quantity of drugs, and the driver, who was a 24-year-old, was taken to court.

"I just got into bad company," said Kennedy, as he asked for leniency.

On a second charge, of vagrancy, he received three months, this term to run concurrently with the first term.

Granville Ward, 21-year-old Alberta district resident, pleaded guilty to failure to notify the divisional magistrate of his change of address, and was fined $10 or 14 days.

Elizabeth McDougall and Helen Belcourt, both charged with vagrancy, pleaded guilty and had their cases remanded until April 6.

Sea Cadets Win Shooting Trophy

Edmonton Sea Cadet Corps won the Turkey cup, emblem of the small bore rifle shooting championship, mounted cadet corps, the city. The match was shot off recently, with teams from the sea cadet corps and the city. The final scores were sea cadets, 98 points out of a possible 100; city, 96; and army cadets, 90 points.

Sea Cadets 2, Martin was the individual high scorer in the competition, recording a 99, a possible 100 while shooting in the last relay for his team.

Practical jokes were busy Saturday night. April 6, the city, took advantage of a chance to play tricks on their friends, attention called to the fact that the city was in a position to play tricks on their friends.

New Nazi Trick of Human Destruction

Using wooden boxes instead of metal to foil detection devices, the Germans are now planning a new type of anti-personnel mine, such as the one here being put out of action by a U.S. soldier in Italy. The soldier holds a cigarette in his left hand for comparison with the size of the detonator. Despite its size, the mine causes serious injury to troops.

No General Trend On Cattle Markets

OTTAWA, April 1.—(CP)—Local conditions governed price trends on Canadian livestock markets this week, with no general movement in any one direction, the agricultural department reported yesterday.

Principal changes in the call market was the sharp break of $2 per hundredweight at Montreal, where the heaviest run of the year to date was on hand.

Most remained at previous levels. Lambs made substantial gains at Toronto and Calgary, and elsewhere sold to a steady trade.

SEVEN city championships along with three provincial titles during the past eight years, add up to a record of no mean proportions and that is exactly what the statistics show regarding performance of the juvenile hockey teams of the Maple Leaf Athletic Club, whose entry copied double honors in the season just ended.

What's more, this year marked the fifth straight triumph for the juveniles in city hockey and only two of the subsequent five attempts did the team fail to answer the Alberta title in addition, Edmonton Athletic Club won out in the local juvenile circuit during the 1938-39 season and went on to defeat Canam in the provincial playoffs. And so commencing with the '38-39 season, there is only one club in the province that has not won the juvenile title.

And it is reasonably obvious that much of the success of the Leafs juveniles has been due to the work and those efforts of the club in charge, Art Jackson, who managed the Leafs' juveniles when they won the provincial title in '37-38, was named manager of the juveniles the following year and he has occupied that position ever since. Orrie Solanetz has coached the team for the past two years.

Loser Proves Rugged and Game Fighter

NEW YORK, April 1.—(AP)—Sidney (Beau Jack) Walker of Augusta, Ga., former holder of the New York version of the lightweight championship, out-pointed Juan Zurita of Mexico City, holder of the N.B.A. lightweight crown, in a close 10-rounder Friday night in Madison Square Garden.

It was a thrilling, punch-packed scrap all the way, with the judges deciding the winner by a close margin. There were no knockdowns, although both fighters appeared in trouble at occasions as they later traded each other about the ring. Referee Frank Pappan gave Beau Jack seven rounds, Zurita two and called one even. Judge Marty Brown gave six to Beau and four to Zurita, while Judge Jim Hagen gave Jack six, Zurita three and called the other a toss-up.

Zurita appeared hurt in the fourth round when he missed a hard left and Beau Jack caught him with two hard rights to the head and body. Zurita came back strong in the sixth.

Beau's victory was the ninth when Zurita caught him on the ropes, landed a hard left to the head and body, and then counter-punched him about the head.

Zurita, in his first eastern appearance, proved a rugged and tough fighter, but he was out of his element in the final round in the final standing in the team event.

Herbie Cain Runner Up Chicago's Clint Smith Cops N.H.L.'s Lady Bing Trophy

By HAROLD FREEMAN
MONTREAL, April 1.—(CP)—Veteran Clint Smith, who piled up a new assist record as playmaker for the great Bentley-Smith-Mosienko line of Chicago Black Hawks, has been awarded the Lady Bing Trophy as the National Hockey League player who best combined sportsmanship with playing ability this season.

It was the second time in 11 years that a player has won the trophy for the best of the season. The trophy was first won by Herbie Cain of the Chicago Black Hawks in the 1933-34 season when he was with New York Rangers.

Smith, 35, had 90 points of a possible 120 in voting conducted by the N.H.L. among sports writers and fans.

Smith's record was 11 assists and 79 goals in 44 games. He was named to the team for the trophy in the 1933-34 season when he was with New York Rangers.

Canadians Set Modern Record Stanley Cup Play

MONTREAL, April 1.—(CP)—They thumbed the record books through Friday, but nobody came up with anything in modern Stanley Cup play to equal that 11-0 romp of the Detroit Red Wings over the Montreal Maple Leafs Thursday night.

The closest approach appeared to be a 5-4 game in the 1936 playoffs. The Leafs came out on the short end of that one, losing to Detroit.

But it wasn't the most one-sided game in the history of the Stanley Cup. The biggest score was piled up in 1903 when Ottawa's famous "Big Game" team, led by Frank Nighbor, defeated the Montreal Canadiens 16-1.

It was an official challenge game, but the circumstances were a bit different. The game was played in 1903 when Ottawa's famous "Big Game" team, led by Frank Nighbor, defeated the Montreal Canadiens 16-1.

NEW YORK, April 1.—As the hubbub in triumphant Utah's dressing room faded momentarily, Prof. Phil O. Badger said to the reporters: "There is completed the most amazing feat in the history of college basketball."

Professor Badger, assistant to the chancellor at New York university, president of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, was referring, naturally, and somewhat dramatically, to Utah's 43-24 triumph over favored St. Louis of Brooklyn, which electrified ball Thursday night for the national college championship.

Sports writers who crowded into the jockey dressing room, among back-slapping youngsters from Salt Lake City and their admirers, appreciated that Badger had wrapped up the story in two words: "amazing."

WON SILVER DISH

No one appreciated this crystallization more than coach Vadal Peterson of the Utah team, who marched into this turbulent room in Madison Square Garden and held aloft the silver dish—about the size of a small wash basin—which is emblematic of national championship. Coach Peterson, a middle-aged man with plenty of gray in his brown mop of hair, trusted about the room, rubbing the silver trophy on the noses of each of his "billy kids" athletes. Like a syncretized king conferring knighthood, Peterson yelled at each as he rubbed. "This is it, kid. Six years, you won it."

It was the greatest night in the life of Vadal Peterson, who had been coach at Utah U. for 17 years, but never before this season had brought a team to New York. Well might it have been the greatest night in his life, for each since Dr. James A. Naismith hung up his peach basket at Springfield (Mass., 1891), and started the sport.

On March 20, Peterson had seen Hal Trosky Plays Today

Brings Along His Own Hickory

NEW YORK, April 1.—(AP)—He brought along his own bat from home this year—did Roberto (Bobby) Estellella, Philadelphia Athletics outfielder who hit a rousing .259 last season.

And don't laugh at that .259, for it was tops for the team's regulars. And Roberto wants to remain tops—that's why he brought along the war club with which he bludgeoned his way this winter to a .326 average in the Cuban league.

A quick look at the training camp: American League Washington—Cuban Luis Arango, like winner of three base averages, although a pitcher Chicago—Hal Trosky, who quit two years ago because of head-aches, averaging .312 and hitting 216 homers in nine years for Cleveland, makes debut under Jimmy Dykes today as White Sox movie Pittsburgh at Louisville.

Cleveland—Jeff Heath and Buddy Roser only absentees, as catcher Jim Devlin, William-Barre, etc. holdout. National League Philadelphia—Outfielder Coaker Triplett, convalescing from flu, now has heavy chest cold and missed practice. Pitcher Dale Matthews, in hospital with bronchitis, undergoes tonsillectomy next week. St. Louis—Big Mort Cooper has here, arm but hopes warmer weather will ease him. Boston—Outfielder Tommy Holmes pounded out three line singles as regulars whipped Yankees 6-1. Ben Carson held losers to one scratch hit in his three innings on mound.

Lodestars Arrive At Port Arthur For West Final

PORT ARTHUR, April 1.—(CP)—Rich in experience and fresh from their convincing victory over Flin Flon Bombers, New Westminster Lodestars arrived here Friday for their best-of-five western Canada senior hockey final with Port Arthur Shipbuilders.

The opening game of the series will be played tonight and the second Monday. Others are scheduled for Wednesday and the following Friday. The series winner will take the eastern champions for the Allan cup.

Lodestars enter the series with a collection of former professionals and a starry collection of top-flight amateurs and have been beaten only once since they won the British Columbia crown last in January.

Conic King and Peter Leswick are the team's former pros both won considerable fame in the American Hockey League.

Led by playing coach, Frank Dutton, Lodestars show a preference for the pros of hockey. They don't dislike any more than necessary but let the puck do most of the work.

lost to their New York hotel, explained the situation. I asked them if they wanted to play some more—they wanted to enter the N.C.A.A. tourney. Remember—these kids were just fresh from a licking at the Garden. They went to a quick huddle then one of them announced that they would like to play—like to prove to the world that they were a better team than they looked against Kentucky; and besides they'd like to come back to New York again. If they won at Kentucky City.

This underdog team won at Kansas City, beating Missouri and Iowa State, then came on to New York and stunned the baseball world by upsetting Dartmouth, 4-0, in the eastern final of the N.C.A.A. tourney.

This gave them the right to meet St. John's, the invitation tourney winner, for the national championship Thursday night.

"And they upset St. John's," Peterson concluded, "because they love to play—and they played the way they love it—relaxing when they could—the lay-up shot—and driving when they should."

Food Fights For Freedom in Our

Seed Flat Needed in Hot As Well as Cold Weather

Here a Hole in the Bottom of Seed Flat.

Insert a Piece of Clothes Line.

Wick Lifts Water From Pan Below to Soil Above.

A seed flat is useful in the Victory Garden throughout the year. In hot, dry summer weather it is often very difficult to obtain good germination from seeds of lettuce, endive, kohlrabi, and some other seeds in the garden.

This is at difficult in rainy weather as in dry, when the soil is somewhat heavy, because rain compact the soil over the seed, the heat bakes it, and the seed sprouts cannot emerge.

But a seed flat can be filled with ready-made, placed in a shady spot, and easily kept moist, so that seeds will germinate as easily as in the spring. By allowing the plants to reach a good size in the flat, they can usually be transplanted to the garden with small loss, and your second and third crops proceed to grow on schedule.

Many gardeners feel that it is easier to transplant lettuce and endive from a flat to the garden than it is to thin out the row, when the seed is sown in the open. By sowing your flat a week or two before the previous crop is exhausted, no time is lost in spite of the check in growth caused by transplanting.

For the seed flat used outdoors in midsummer, some method of automatic watering is ideal, since otherwise it is necessary to soak the flat daily, or even twice a day. The wick-watering method gives excellent results when the flat is placed above a pan sufficiently large to supply water for two or three days. The wick, which may be a piece of cotton yarn, passing down with a hole in the bottom of the flat, has its top (rayed and imbedded in the soil which fills the box, and its bottom drops into a pan below the box, which is kept full of water.

As long as there is water in the pan below, the flat in the box will keep moist. By varying the height of the box above the pan, the degree of moisture may be controlled. When seeds have been sown in the box, they will fill the box, and after a few days they can be given full sun or partial shade, according to the weather and time of year, whenever they may give the seedling plants the best conditions in which to develop.

Here's How to Double Your Victory Garden's Yield

Days to Maturity	Harvest From one seedling	Grow for two seedlings
Beans, snap	42-53	6 weeks
Beets	45-50	6 weeks
Cauliflower	45-50	6 weeks
Cucumbers	45-55	6 weeks
Endive	45-50	6 weeks
Lettuce	35-40	6 weeks
Kohlrabi	45-50	6 weeks
Turnips	45-50	6 weeks
Squash	45-50	6 weeks
Borrel Corn	45-50	6 weeks
Onion Sets	45-50	6 weeks
Peas	45-50	6 weeks

summer winter	45-50	6 weeks

Everyone agrees that Victory gardens in 1943 were amazingly successful. But the experts also say there are some points on which they were weak. The greatest room for improvement is probably in providing for second, third or even fourth plantings of short-harvest crops.

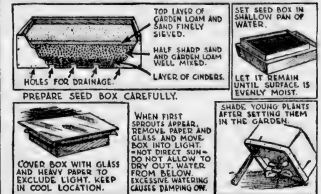

These are the crops which yield abundantly for a few weeks, then either stop or give much reduced results for the rest of the season. You many gardeners planted them only once in the spring, and then were likely to plant too much. As a result, they probably had during the first harvest a surplus which may have caused waste, only to be followed by a long period when that particular vegetable was not available from the garden.

How can this be prevented? A table of these short-harvest vegetables, giving data which will enable you to plan them for an all-season yield, or as nearly that as possible, heads this discussion. Look it over. There are not many of these vegetables, and you probably do not grow them all.

The table shown in the first column how soon after sowing the seed it will be possible to use the crop. This does not mean full maturity in all cases, as some of these crops can be used when half-grown. In most cases early varieties will be ready much sooner than late, so more precise data on the time it takes to grow your favorite crop should be sought from your seed catalog.

The next column gives the time available from the garden.

Seed Box in Sunny Window Gives Plants Head Start

A small box in a sunny window will give the seeds of a few favorite varieties of Victory Garden vegetables several weeks' head-start this spring.

If you have no soil frame or hot bed, yet do not want to be limited to the selection of plants usually in the market, the seed box offers a way to grow your own.

The name "flat" is usually applied to the seed box. It may be any convenient size from a cigar box to the standard florist's flat, which is usually 14 by 20 inches, 4 inches deep. Holes may be bored in the bottom of the box, the soil may now be thoroughly soaked without danger of washing the seeds from their places. A wet blanket of newspaper may be placed over the soil to keep it from drying, and the box set in a warm, dark place until the seeds sprout.

Immediately sprouts appear remove this blanket, and place the box in the sunniest window you can find.

Ways to Conserve Farm Implements

Domestic experimental farm suggests these ways to conserve farm machinery in wartime.

Keep all machines and equipment properly adjusted and in good working condition.

Do as much home repair work as possible.

Order replacement parts well in advance to assure delivery and prevent an otherwise workable machine lying idle at the peak of the season's rush.

Purchase and use second hand machines.

Protect implements from weather.

A kitchen window is good, because humidity is always greater there. If a pane of glass is kept over the box at night, moisture will be conserved; but always lift an edge of this cover during the day, for ventilation, wipe off moisture which condenses on it, and remove it entirely when the plants grow high enough to touch it.

Watering must be thorough; soak the soil wherever it grows dry and do this without washing the soil.

Seedboxes handled this way seldom suffer from "damping off," which is a fungus disease that kills little plants. But if you do have this trouble, then disinfectants can be obtained which will kill the fungus.

Being constantly under observation the seed box enables the amateur to learn at first hand the way seedlings grow, and the conditions which encourage healthy progress.

Conservation of Equipment Wartime Duty for Farmer

Equipment conservation in its simplest term means care which means giving farm equipment the attention that any good investment should have," states the Canadian Society of Technical Agriculturists.

"Now that farm equipment must serve longer than ever before conservation is more important, for the farmer's responsibility of producing food for Canada's war effort and that of the United States still remains."

"Protection from weather is also important. Some farmers have the life of more farm equipment has been shortened by neglect than through wearing out by hard work. Fortunately, protection from weather is comparatively simple. Most farmers have room for storage of equipment under cover, the point is to get it there. No one can do that but the one responsible for it.

It would be safe to say that the

Russia Invited To Send Mission For Air Parley

By C. R. BLACKBURN
WASHINGTON, April 1.—(CP)—A state department announcement last night that Russia has been invited to send a mission to Washington for discussion on post-war civil aviation control, and that an American delegation would be sent to London for the same purpose, was followed by revelation that the London-based party had engaged in preliminary discussions with Canadian authorities.

This pattern is a substitute for the United States' proposal of a month ago to have Canadian, British, and Russian representatives meet in Washington the third week of March for an aviation parley.

It is emphasized here the forthcoming unilateral discussions were entirely informal and exploratory in advance of a general conference proposed for the near future. The state department announced that the British mission, headed by Lord Dunsany, assistant under-secretary of state, and Mr. Warner of the civil aeronautics branch, would visit London and then proceed to Ottawa to meet with Canadian officials.

The Canadian government announced meanwhile that Berie and Warner had been in Canada for informal talks with Hon. C. D. Howe, minister of munitions and supply, Norman Robertson, under-secretary of state for external affairs, and H. J. Spring, president of Trans-Canada Airlines.

The United States, Canada and Great Britain have been working on post-war aviation policies for some time. While Canada and Great Britain have put forth concrete proposals for international control of the air, the United States has not gone beyond listing the questions to be considered.

SEE NOTHING DEFINITE
Because of that, some officials feel nothing definite is likely to come out of the preliminary discussion. The fact Russia may join

Jury Returns Second Degree Murder Verdict

NEW YORK, April 1.—(AP)—Wayne Lonergan was convicted of murder in the second degree last night in the slaying of his mistress, Patricia, last Oct. 24.

The verdict carried with it a prison term of 20 years to life. An all-male jury returned its finding at 10:23 p.m. E.D.T. after being out since 12:45 p.m. yesterday.

Judge James Corbett Wallace fixed April 12 for sentencing.

REMAINS GASED
The cold, solid police with which Lonergan had conducted himself since the beginning of the trial remained with him as the decision of the jury was made.

The only visible traces of emotion were that he stood with his head slightly bowed, his lips and blinked as the verdict was read.

The trial turned the spotlight on high life in safe society, with smartly clad witnesses describing events behind bars and after crime, but the prosecution based its case chiefly on Lonergan's purported confession.

In it he was quoted as saying he battered and choked his wife to death as she lay undressed on her massive mahogany and bronze bed. He declared in the statement that he had been on his rounds of night club and not together.

He declared in the statement that he and his wife quarrelled violently.

Report Bombs Are Dropped On Swiss Town

By Walter Cronkite
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin
London, April 1.—(AP)—United States Liberators opened the April offensive against Germany today with an attack on the south-west Reich and a Swiss community said planes dropped bombs on Schaffhausen in North Switzerland, starting several fires.

The U.S. Eighth Air Force sent a relatively small formation of Liberators escorted by fighters to the southwest German town to usher in a new month of the aerial campaign against the Luftwaffe and other enemy war potentials.

Swiss dispatches supplementing the official report that planes dropped bombs on Schaffhausen said a power plant, two factories and an asylum for the aged were hit. Several fires were burning, and the number of dead had not been determined.

5 MILES FROM REICH
Schaffhausen, capital of the Swiss Canton of the same name, is 23 miles north of Zurich and five miles from the German border. It has a population of more than 15,000.

A mid-morning Berlin broadcast said the bomber formation were over and approaching the southwest German city. A half-hour earlier, the German radio said that German formations were approaching southwest Germany, Berlin said.

A number of enemy raiders also were seen over the north-west German city, Berlin said. R.A.F. Mosquito bombers attacked the city last night.

Swiss dispatches said that the last night with small-scale attacks on the city. Though the damage was not as great as that reported in the German press, a comparatively minor toll, without loss of life, was reported.

16-Year-Old Youth Suffers Disappointment When Army Insists on Proof of Age

Leslie Proctor, a 16-year-old fighting fisherman from Lac la Biche, is the most disappointed youngster in Canada today, and all because army authorities insist on documentary proof of a person's age when signing up for military service.

Returns Home

Leslie Proctor came to Edmonton the other day with brother Ronald Proctor, a 16-year-old fisherman from Lac la Biche.

Leslie nodded when asked if he was disappointed. He is only 16, and the medical examination with a category of A-1.

He is the youngest of six brothers who have served with the forces. Both boys were mighty happy about the whole thing, but just when Leslie was all set to start training, a medical officer came from Winnipeg, stating that his records disclosed that would-be soldier Leslie is only 16, and even with the consent of parents this is not enough for a fellow to do a spot of soldiering.

Now Leslie says he's going to try again in another year, when he thinks the army may be in greater need of a few good soldiers and perhaps not so sticky about technicalities.

The Proctor boys were born in Manitoba and are sons of Mrs. A. C. Proctor, a well-known fisherman. The reason Leslie and Ronald had to go to do the khaki is not hard to find.

Four brothers have already served in the forces. They are: Peter James Proctor, overseas; Carl Raymond Proctor, R.C.O.C., overseas; and Wireless Operator, overseas; and Wireless Operator, overseas.

OTHER SERVING
Two sisters-in-law and two brothers-in-law are also in the service. They are the wife of Peter David Proctor, overseas; and the wife of Carl Raymond Proctor, overseas.

VANCOUVER, April 1.—(CP)—Broadcasting equipment valued at $5,000 was destroyed by fire at the radio station of the British Columbia Broadcasting Co. (B.C.B.C.) today.

The fire broke out in the radio station at 10:30 p.m. today. The fire was caused by a short circuit in the wiring. The fire was extinguished by the fire department.

A travelling "Hit" under the direction of Miss Helen Fries, was enthusiastically received by Commercial students, Thursday. This "Hit" the first of its kind, aims to establish a Dominion-wide organization, in order to encourage the art of music, dancing and drama. We sincerely hope it continues to meet with success.

On Friday evening, Commercial had its last sock-dance of the year. Rabbits and tulip silhouettes adorned the walls and gay streamers decorated the orchestra platform. Dixie Club's popular band supplied the dance music. A prize was given for the most colored boy in the group. The prizes were also awarded to the two best literatures of the evening. Among the teachers present were:

Mr. and Mrs. Page and Mr. and Mrs. Karl Giering.
At the conclusion of the March war savings drive, Room 11, for the third consecutive month, again won the prize for purchasing the most war stamps.

A boys' basketball game, versus Westwood, was played in the gym Tuesday. Although Commercial lost to the opposing team, 26-21, it was a very close game all the way through.

ST. MARY'S
Last Tuesday Eastwood defeated St. Mary's, 24-17, in the last girls' basketball game of the season. The teams were evenly matched which made the game very exciting for the numerous students who were spectators.

Eastwood walked away with the first quarter by a score of 10 points to St. Mary's 2. By the second quarter our team was getting warmed up and gradually getting into the Eastwood form which is somewhat larger than ours. The score was tied at 2 points each and later on in the third quarter St. Mary's chalked up a total of 10 points while Eastwood scored 8.

The high scorer for the game was Stella Noel who got 12 points for the St. Mary's team while McCormick of Eastwood was next in line with 8 points.

Both teams played a grand game and they seem to be good sports. We hope that the next time we meet that our team will be victorious.

"Oh, dear!" cries Miss Red Rose, "I got my GREEN frock all wet!" And she holds out her RED hand to feel the drops.

"Oh, Mr. Sun, do make it dry again, please!" little Miss PURPLE Violet laments. She has a YELLOW blouse and a GREEN skirt. The ground is BROWN.

April Fool is RED and YELLOW and a YELLOW and PURPLE frock. His face is PINK (use RED and blue), and the little flower (use PINK cheeks).

Leagues, Clubs Urged to Assist Mosquito Drive

Plans for the 1941 season mosquito abatement campaign should be well advanced by April 15 if effective intakes are to be made on the nuisance this year, John H. Brown, professor of entomology, University of Alberta, stated Saturday.

Simply because the city has a certain amount of money for this campaign should not be taken by the public that the "mosquito trouble" is over, he said. The money voted is not going to be of much value unless the breeding of the insects are located and treated properly.

URGES CO-OPERATION
It is an intently interested in seeing the community leagues, and service clubs take an interest in this campaign, and would to suggest that each community league prepare a map of their district on which all known bodies of standing water, large or small, should be marked.

The exact location of these pools should be shown.

It is the completion of the map the city engineer's department could be notified by the community leagues, and the location of the pools.

A master map could be kept at the office of the city engineer, and the engineer could then devote the rest of the control over to the ditching, draining and filling work.

The preparation of the maps by the community leagues would eliminate work by the engineer's department in travelling round the city and the type parties within the city limits.

It is suggested that service clubs could render a great service by taking over territory not under the control of the community league survey.

MARK ALL AREAS
The city engineer, Professor Brown, is of the opinion that all places where water lay last spring should be marked as well as water in the city and the location of the pools.

"I would like to see the interest of the community leagues and service clubs aroused to the necessity of taking an active part in this campaign, and the work left to do all the work alone it will not get very far on $10,000, considering the size of the city and the number of ponds there are at present." Comment on the work left to do all the work alone it will not get very far on $10,000, considering the size of the city and the number of ponds there are at present.

City Business Women Decide To Form Group

Preliminary discussion directed toward the formation of an Edmonton business women's organization which will support civic projects and assist in city rehabilitation programs, was held at a dinner meeting of 30 Edmonton business women in the Royal George hotel Friday evening.

Mrs. Kate Lyons, head of the women's division of the local unemployment insurance office, presided at the meeting and gave a brief address outlining the advantages and purposes of the proposed organization.

SEES MANY SERVICES

Mrs. Lyons stressed the fact that Edmonton business women could help enormously in boosting civic projects and could lend their support to programs for the betterment of working conditions, beautification of the city, and any program "that will improve our city."

Representatives of all types of business firms were present at the meeting as well as a number of other women employment officers, women personnel managers and women who manage their own business establishments.

Mrs. Lyons called upon all the women present to express their ideas and to try to interest as many other business women as they could to lend their support and join the group.

Mrs. W. H. Moore, who manages Duncan's ladies' wear store in the house of her husband, who is in the service overseas, said she felt the ladies could do no better than to immediately begin to support the present campaign to improve the position around the MacDonald hotel. "We should all take an interest in improving our city," she said. "We should, all of us who are eligible, join the Chamber of Commerce and in helping the committee in planning and attending the meetings and lend our assistance in solving civic problems."

OTHERS GIVE VIEWS

Miss Betty Glickson, personnel manager of Zeller's department store, Mrs. A. MacTavish, director of the MacTavish Business College, Miss Adeline McKee, personnel manager of Woodward's Ltd., Miss Wyn Wilson, manager of Stewart-Lovell Advertising Agency, all spoke briefly.

Several expressed the opinion that women in the group could help each other solve business and employment problems. All expressed the opinion that the women of the city should take an active interest in city rehabilitation schemes.

It was agreed to hold another meeting in April when election of officers will take place and a name for the organization be chosen.

All present were extremely enthusiastic about the proposed organization and agreed to bring as many other women as possible to the next meeting.

Plan to Repeat Play at Church

A repeat performance of "The Church on the River," will be given by students of Alberta University at McLeodville United Church Sunday morning, in connection with the church's plan for the restoration of the old church as a shrine and a museum.

The play, written by Prof. Robert F. Gard, director of research and drama, is being presented by the Alberta extension department under a Booklet, Foundation and Fellowship, in under the direction of Miss Doris Berry.

The drama commemorates the dedication of the original McLeodville church which laid the foundation for the city of Edmonton and also depicts the various problems of the early settlers.

At the morning service at McLeodville church, the choir will sing an anthem composed by Mrs. Alma Wright, wife of the Rev. M. L. Wright, minister.

Mrs. McKee, with wild garlands, must be fired of the floor, no matter how it is processed.
